

VOTE THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

Governor Aldrich, Senator Brown and Congressman Norris
Write to That Effect

State of Nebraska
Executive Office

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 11, 1912.

Hon. John L. Kennedy,
Omaha, Neb.

My dear Mr. Kennedy:

Your kind favor of recent date is at hand. I fully concur in your plans as expressed in your letter. I don't believe anything should intervene at this time to attract attention from our present campaign in the election of supreme judges and regents to the state university. This is a very important election and there is absolutely no reason why republicans everywhere over the entire state should not rally to the support of their ticket. I believe that Mr. Bryan is out over the state urging democrats everywhere to line up for a straight democratic ticket. If he can show the reason why the people should vote the democratic ticket this fall on state issues, the republicans certainly can show one hundred why a republican ticket should be elected. The record of the last two democratic legislatures should put the democratic party out of every possibility of power in this state for the next decade. Our candidates for the supreme judiciary are men of experience, letters and have had successful experience as supreme judges and their decisions show the breadth and scope of a high order of judicial ability.

The office of railway commissioner is second to none in the state. The amount, extent and nature of the business transacted by the Nebraska railway commission is of vital importance in dollars and cents, not only to all of the people, but to the railroads as well. This commission has done great work both for the people and the common carriers and it is up to the people to see to it that nothing happens that will in any way detract or take away the efficiency of this commission. And if the people elect Thomas H. Hall they will find in him a man of sterling integrity, eminent fairness and thoroughly well qualified. I am personally acquainted with Mr. Hall. He is an able lawyer, is deeply interested from a proper standpoint in the welfare of Nebraska and his political views on public questions are thoroughly progressive. No one has ever been heard to question the integrity and fairness of Mr. Hall. And in his election, the people and the common carriers will have a man upon whom they can at all times rely and implicitly trust. There should be no question about his election. I hope you will succeed in impressing the republicans of this state with the importance of this election, and convince them that it is their duty to give you their hearty support and co-operation in their efforts for good government in Nebraska. It goes without saying that I am ready to assist you whenever I can.

Cordially,
Charles H. Aldrich

Speaker of Representatives U. S.

Washington D. C.

McCook, Nebraska.

October 7, 1912.

Honorable John L. Kennedy,

Chairman Rep. State Central Committee,
Omaha, Nebraska.

My dear Mr. Kennedy:

Upon my return home after an absence of several days, I find your letter of October 4th awaiting my attention. In my judgment, the issues of the next campaign should not enter into and are not connected with the issues of the present campaign. In the presidential primaries next April, the voter will be called upon to determine questions that are in no way related to or connected with the issues in the campaign this fall. This fall we are electing judges of the Supreme Court, Regents of the State University and a Railroad Commissioner. The qualifications of candidates and the fitness of men for these offices are entirely distinct and separate from the questions to be determined in the presidential primaries next April, and no man's vote at the coming November election should be influenced by the position he intends to take next April in that contest.

Personally, I had hoped that the issues of next year's contest would not be brought up for discussion until after the coming election was out of the way and I would not have entered into any discussion of the issues and the men involved in the presidential primary contest had it not been that the question was first opened up and discussed by those who will be on the opposite side from myself in the April primaries.

Yours truly,
John L. Kennedy

United States Senate,

Committee on Patents,
Washington D. C.

Nebraska, Oct. 6, 1912.

Hon. John L. Kennedy,

Chairman, Republican State Committee,
Omaha, Nebraska.

Dear Mr. Kennedy:

I have your esteemed favor of the 4th inst. in which you express a hope for the election of the state ticket this year and in which you ask me for an expression of how such a result can be attained. Replying, permit me to say, in the first place the character and ability of the candidates are such as to command the full confidence and support of the people without regard to politics. Judges Letton, Rose, and Baker have each been tried in judicial service and each has acquitted himself as a Judge. Letton and Rose on the Supreme Bench, and Baker on the District Bench, to the full satisfaction of all those who honor able and just Judges. I know of no safer guide than the test of trial. These men have been tried. They were honest, efficient and impartial. No stronger commendation can be found than the records they have made for themselves.

Thomas L. Hall has a life record for industrious devotion to correct and impartial law the regulation of public service corporations. No one can truthfully question his qualifications for Railway Commissioner nor his disposition to treat fairly and fairly both the shipper and the railroads.

Frank Haller and Victor Lyford are both men of scholarship and high character and both have shown live interest in educational affairs. They are students still. With these men elected Regents of the University that institution would continue to hold its place among the foremost universities of the country to the great advantage and profit of our young people and to the great credit and good name of our advancing state.

With such a ticket no Republican will find it easy or agreeable to encourage the candidates of any other party.

You also enquire "to what extent, if any at all, the issues of the next campaign should enter into this campaign?" In my judgment, none at all. The campaign next year will have to do with problems not before us for solution on election day of this year. After election there will be ample time before the primaries of 1914 for the Republicans to consider and debate the issues and candidates of that year, when all differences, if any shall then exist, can be determined and settled.

I am a Republican and still feel under deep obligations to the party from which I sought and which gave me the nomination four years ago as well as to the people who afterwards elected me. That obligation would be repaid if I did ought to inject into this campaign my own candidacy or that of any other man which cannot be determined until next year.

I congratulate you and the party and the people on your efforts to keep Republicans together instead of apart and on your strong desire to promote the success of the ticket so worthy of popular support. In this understanding my services are at your command.

Very truly,
Morris Brown

When you go into a place of business you naturally like to have your surroundings appear neat and clean. The Royal Pool Hall has recently been renovated and cleaned throughout, and in addition, Manager C. Shannon has placed a two-chair barber shop in connection which are presided over experienced artists.

The Nebraska association of blacksmiths, wheel-wrights and horse-shoers will hold their next state convention in Columbus, in October of next year. At the convention of last year, which was held at Grand Island, A. C. Boone, the local representative made a hard fight to land the 1911 convention, but finally it went to Omaha with the understanding that it should be brought here in 1912. The blacksmiths have kept their part of the agreement and will meet here next year.

Do You Want to Get Slender?

A food specialist said of dieting: "The simplest, easiest and most efficacious diet to bring down the weight is the one dish diet. At no meal, that is, should more than one dish be eaten. The dish may be what you will—Irish stew, macaroni and cheese, roast beef, vegetable soup, bacon and eggs—but no courses are to precede or follow it. You may eat as much as you choose of the dish, and yet, for all that, you will lose weight steadily. It's the variety of dishes—the oysters, soup, fish, turkey, mince pie, ice cream—it's the variety of dishes, creating an artificial appetite when the body has really had all it requires, that causes corpulence. If we confine ourselves to one dish we know when we've had enough—we don't know otherwise—and the result is that we soon drop down to the slimmest natural to children, animals and temperate and healthy men and women."—Kansas City Star.

A Miracle Under Orders.

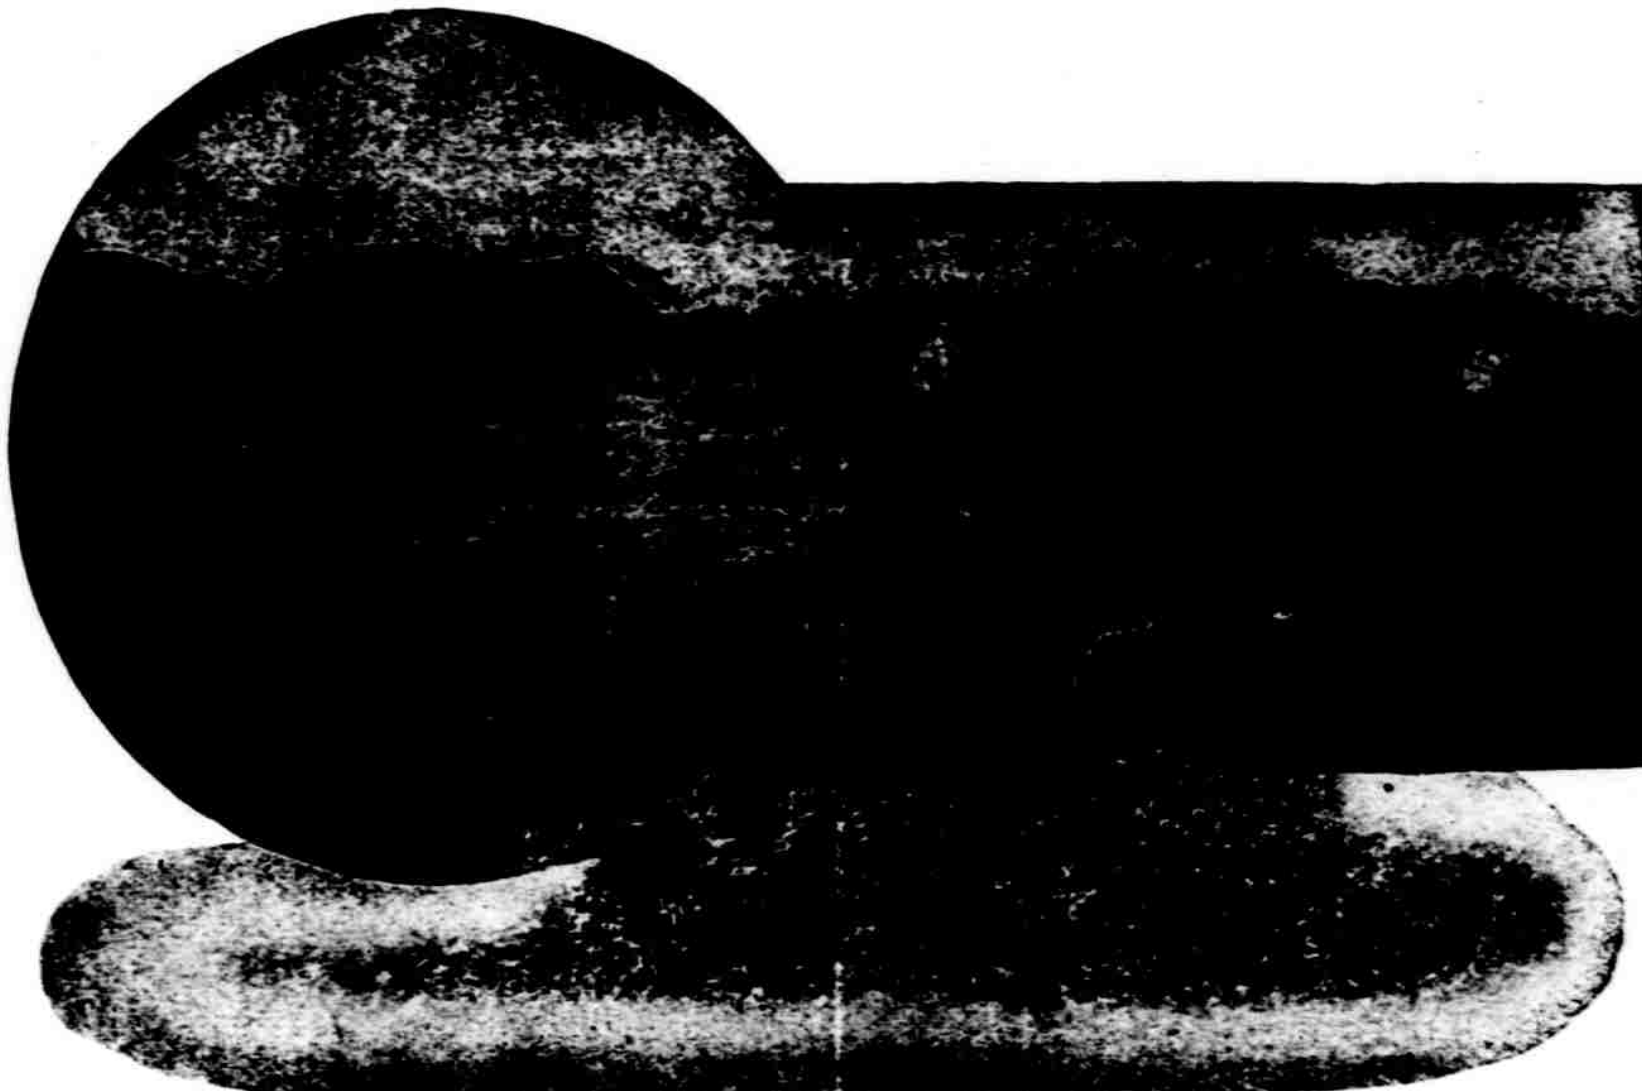

In "The Glory of the Shia World," translated from a Persian manuscript, is a story that will interest Christian Scientists:

"Nadir, builder of the 'golden porch of Nadir' in the sacred city of Meshed, was a world conqueror and a lord of perception, albeit cruel. Of his power of perception they relate that one day when he entered the sacred shrine he saw a blind man invoking the aid of the imam, and upon inquiry he learned that he had been there for several months. The great monarch asked him why his faith was so weak that his sight had not been restored and swore that if on his return he found him still blind he would cut off his head. The wretched man prayed so fervently and fixed his mind so intently on the imam that within a few minutes his sight was restored."

Powdered Wigs.

From childhood Louis XV, French monarch, used powder upon his wig and made it completely white, which custom was imitated by his courtiers. This practice continued until the reign of terror, when wigs and powder disappeared together from France.

BUY A HOME NOW

Do you not feel a glow of comfort when you think of the old home of your childhood where for years you met with father, mother, brother and sister?

One cannot have a home that casts such a benediction over the life of his children unless he owns it. The renter is like driftwood tossed about from place to place and never knows how long he will be permitted to remain where he is. When a man owns his home there is something to live for. Every tree he plants and every nail he drives is a joy to him.

The great struggle of today is for better homes. Whether you are in the east, in the central states, or in the west, you will find men earnestly searching the maps for the location of certain sections of the country that have been recommended to them as favorably for improving their present conditions.

The passenger trains are crowded almost every month of the year with persons who are going somewhere in search of homes. Considering the cost of good land in the eastern and central states it is not surprising that so many are seeking the west, where the chances of prosperity are many times better than they are in the said eastern and central states. Among all the localities that are now open for investment there is none that surpasses western Nebraska. Land can be bought at such prices that one crop will pay several times the price.

The population is at present very scarce. It, however, is rapidly increasing. Not only is the deeded land becoming more thickly settled, but the government lands have all been taken up and contain thriving and prosperous farmers and stock growers.

There is No Time Like the Present

Now then, since the climate is good, soil productive, crops remunerative, rainfall abundant, water pure, and land values certain to rise, why not buy now? You have probably thought many times that you would go out and buy as soon as you could get away, but you have put it off time and again until you have practically forgotten about it. Did you ever stop to think that the man who acts quickly gets his profit from fellows who wait awhile? We have made scores of sales to men this year whom we asked last year to come out and buy for far less money. We will make scores of sales this coming year to men who could come and buy now for far less money than the will pay when they do come, simply because now is the time to buy.
